

GOP Senators Irked By Witnesses Mum On White House Talks

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Senate inquiry into Gen. Douglas MacArthur's dismissal was broken off today by a hot argument over whether Gen. Omar Bradley should tell about his private talks with President Truman.

Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, refused yesterday to tell what he and Mr. Truman said to each other prior to the firing of the Far Eastern commander. Today, the White House said Mr. Truman does not want Bradley to do so.

Playing Politics

Nevertheless, some Republicans on the inquiry panel—made up of the Senate armed services and foreign relations committees—were insistent that Bradley should tell.

While Bradley sat silently in the witness chair for more than two hours today, the senators argued heatedly. Charges implied and direct, of trying to play politics figured in the debate.

In the upshot:

1. Bradley was dismissed as a witness until Monday.
2. The senators agreed to vote at noon (EST) tomorrow on whether they should insist that the five-star general tell them about his conference with the president.

This left the course of the inquiry up in the air for the immediate future, but stymied it for the day at least.

Atop the charges hurled in the committee room itself, Senator Fulbright (D-Ark.) told reporters on leaving that he fears Republicans may be "trying to sabotage" the whole inquiry into MacArthur's ouster.

Iron Curtain Criticized

Fulbright said:

"Apparently things are not quite going the way they (Republicans) like. I think the inference can be drawn that because of this they are making unfair and untrue charges about 'pulling down the iron curtain.'"

Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) had declared in the committee room that Bradley's stand about the talks with the president raised a question whether the White House was lowering an "iron curtain" on the testimony of witnesses.

Fulbright said it appeared to him the Republicans were preparing to "cry whitewash and torpedo the whole investigation."

Judges' Pension Plan Comes To Vote In Lansing

LANSING — (AP) — A judge's retirement plan, which survived strong attacks from opposite directions, may reach a vote in the house today.

In debate yesterday, one group attacked the measure as giving judges too much. Another claimed the plan was beneath the dignity of the bench.

Already approved by the senate, the bill would permit supreme court, circuit court, superior court and recorders court judges to retire after 30 years' service at $4,500 annually. It would be financed by contributions from the judges and a $2 increase in court filing fees.

Financing Criticized

Opponents of the principle of pensioning judges, led by Rep. Harry J. Phillips (R-Port Huron), attempted to attach a referendum clause. This would have held up the effect of the bill until it was approved by the people. The house defeated this attempt.

Phillips urged that the people should pass on such a concession to a "pompous group who have thumbled their noses at the law." He did not elaborate.

Rep. Louis C. Cramton (R-Lapeer), a former circuit judge, attacked the method of financing.

He said it would amount to the judges "watching the parade of litigants going past while judges hold out a tin cup for contributions to their pension plan."

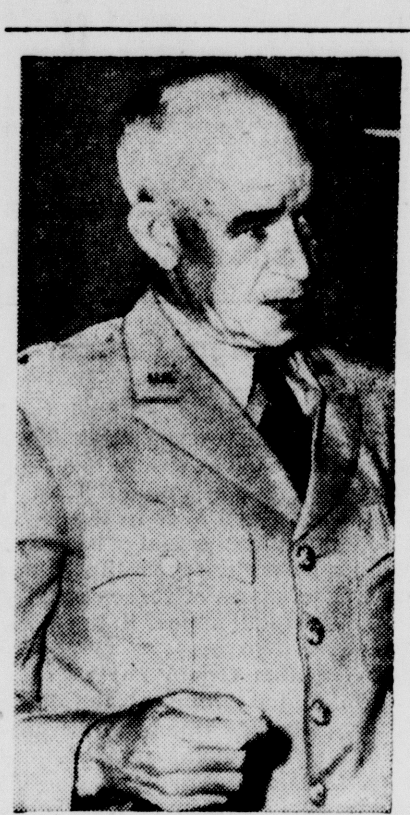

The house defeated his attempt to leave the filing fees unchanged and finance the plan out of state general fund money.

Goulette Loses Again

Among a host of other bills advanced for votes before the week ends were measures to permit employees not under retirement plans to come under federal social security and to require colleges televising football games for paid.

Enemy Masses 390,000 Troops For Offensive

TOKYO, (Thursday) — (AP) — Red troops poured out of the hills in attacks all along the eastern front of Korea Wednesday night.

It was too early to tell whether it was the start of the expected Red offensive, or new probing in force.

They struck strong blows from Chunchon, 45 miles northeast of Seoul.

The attacks came not long after Maj. Gen. William Hoge, commander of the U. S. Ninth corps, predicted the Red offensive would open Friday.

Allied intelligence officers said a striking force of 390,000 Reds was ready for the signal to begin their biggest offensive of the war.

One United Nations divisional officer said the Communists "will have to do more probing" before the attack. "They are not too familiar with our defense lines."

Morale Weakens

Allied patrols reaching across the 10 mile wide no-man's-land also probed continually into Chinese buildups. Deeper penetrations ran into artillery fire from self propelled guns.

A divisional spokesman said increasing numbers of Red prisoners are being brought back, indicating a weakening of Communist morale.

Peiping radio sought to bolster Chinese troops by assuring them they have shown that the "United States is nothing but a paper tiger." The Red China broadcast said the war will continue until "we drive the mad, shameless American imperialists completely out of Korea."

Truman's Sister Taken For Ride; Agent Fined $20

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Rep. Keating (R-N.Y.), who for the second time has produced information calculated to embarrass the Democratic occupants of the White House, says he has no "pipe line."

"But," he adds, "I have a lot of friends in government."

Yesterday Keating told the House a government-owned limousine, bearing President Truman's sister, was stopped for speeding at 70 to 75 miles an hour through Hopewell, N. Y., last Saturday.

The driver of the car, whom Keating named as Grady A. Stowe, a special agent assigned to guard a member of the president's family, was fined $20 by a justice of the peace.

In his House speech, Keating said:

"Investigation developed that . . . it was the president's sister traveling around in western New York in a government-owned limousine . . ."

"The president has been taking everybody else in the country for a ride for six years. Why not his own sister?"

Greece And Turkey Seek Membership In Atlantic Pact

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON — (AP) — The U. S. has opened talks with other members of the North Atlantic alliance to find out whether they will agree to extend the security system to Greece and Turkey.

Several of the other 11 members in the past have been strongly opposed to extending the treaty system into the Middle East and some of the best informed officials here doubt they will change their positions readily.

Greece and Turkey began pressing for membership in the Atlantic treaty system more than a year ago. The subject was discussed when the NATO foreign ministers met in New York last fall. It was decided at that time to set up a compromise arrangement whereby the two countries participate in military staff planning for the defense of the Mediterranean. But the Turks particularly have disliked what they consider a suggestion of second class membership.

While Greece and Turkey have taken the initiative, there is a strong body of military opinion which holds that the U. S. needs some basic treaty arrangement with those countries in order to obtain arrangements for air bases.

At the last round of discussions upon the Atlantic powers the U. S. did not press its case and in fact at an early stage opposed extending the treaty to an area clearly outside the North Atlantic area.

Concert Cellist Dies On Stage

BALTIMORE — (AP) — Cellist Felix Robert Mendelssohn, great grand nephew of the famous German composer, died on the concert stage last night.

The 60-year-old musician was in the midst of Dohnany's Concert Piece in D Major—a composition he introduced to the world in Berlin in 1918—when the bow went limp in his grasp and he collapsed.

Attendants quickly rushed him to Mercy hospital from the Cadoa hall. But he was dead on arrival there.

Mendelssohn's physician, Dr. Harold H. Bix, said he had treated him for a minor ailment a few days ago, but it was nothing serious, he said Mendelssohn had had no apparent heart trouble.

He began his musical career in his native Germany as an eight-year-old prodigy. In Berlin he wrote his most noted composition, the passion opera Christus.

His popularity was cut short when Hitler came into power. He was regarded as a Jew by the Nazis because his famous predecessor had been a Hebrew before he was converted to the Christian (Lutheran) faith.

He fled to England in 1933, then to the United States to stay four years later.

Cell Of Communism At Portsmouth Navy Yard Investigated

PORTSMOUTH, N. H. — (AP) — A double-pronged investigation was underway today at the Portsmouth Naval Shipyard after an American Legion official said a Communist cell capable of sabotage was operating there.

The navy at Boston said both navy intelligence and the FBI were investigating the charge made public yesterday by Frank Sawyer, adjutant of the New Hampshire American Legion.

At the same time, Sen. Bridges (R-N.H.) said he has asked the House un-American Activities committee to probe the matter.

Branch Banking Ghost Feared

LANSING — (AP) — The senate today still fears the ghost that walked—the spectre of the 10-year-old chain banking fight which led to bankers and legislators being indicted for bribery.

For the second time the senate stalled a decision on a banking bill while it tried to decide whether, as some feared—it would permit the extension of branch banking in Michigan.

The senate voted 17-12 to rip the controversial old age assistance "lien law" by forbidding the state to lay claim to the home-steads of deceased old age assistance recipients for the assistance they received during their lifetimes.

Since old age assistance recipients seldom leave more than their homes, the effect of the bill is to nullify the recovery act, senators said.

The senate passed house bills to:

- Require autos to have windshield defrosters and power-driven windshield wipers by Oct. 1, 1951.
- Require minority political parties to cast five per cent of the total vote to gain a place on the primary ballot. The requirement now is two per cent.
- Establish a state bureau of elections under the secretary of state to supervise elections and train election workers.
- Permit persons to be eligible for old age assistance if they own a $10,000 home and intangible property worth $5,000.

Used Car Sales Tax Proposed In House

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A proposal to tax the sale of used cars came up for decision by the House ways and means committee today. The committee already has voted to increase taxes of all types about $6,528,000,000 a year.

The used car tax proposal has aroused considerable resistance, on the ground that a seven per cent tax is paid on all new cars at the manufacturers' level. The committee has voted to hike the new car rate to ten per cent, however.

The bulk of this year's proposed tax boosts would come from individual income taxpayers ($2,900,000,000 net); corporation ($2,080,000,000) and excise increases and additions ($1,068,000,000 so far).

In addition, a 20 per cent withholding tax at the source on dividends and interest is expected to bring in $330,000,000 from income which otherwise might go unreported. A similar withholding tax on dividends of co-operatives is counted on for $25,000,000.

The committee decided the capital gains tax should not apply when a homeowner realizes a profit on the sale of his dwelling and reinvests the money in another residence for his own use within a year.

The committee also voted to give single persons who actually are the heads of families approximately half the tax advantage enjoyed by married couples under the income splitting provision of the 1948 tax law.

Pontiac Holdup Case Widow Is Suicide

PONTIAC, Mich. — (AP) — The widow of a man killed in a hold-up less than a month ago took her own life here last night.

She was Mrs. Katherine M. Bell, 48, whose husband, Alex, was killed April 27 by a holdup man who took more than $4,000 from him at a poolroom operated here.

Deputy Coroner Isaac Prevette pronounced her death a suicide. She attached a hose to the exhaust of her automobile and placed the open end through a window.

Grain For India Loan Approved

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Senate voted today 52 to 32 today to put the proposed shipment of 2,000,000 tons of grain to famine-threatened India on a straight loan basis.

The provision was written into a senate bill which calls for supplying half the grain as a loan and half as a gift.

Acceptance of the amendment sponsored by Senators Ferguson (R-Mich.), McCarran (D-Nev.) and Bridges (R-N.H.) apparently cleared away any obstacle to final passage of the bill later in the day.

Most of the opposition had developed against the proposal that any part of the shipment should be a donation.

The loan amendment provides that the terms should be the same as those for Marshall plan loans, with payment extending over a period of more than 30 years, low interest rates and a period of grace of six to eight years before any principal payments are due.

Congress On Record To Ban War Goods Shipments To China

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Congress went on record yesterday to advocate a ban by the free world on shipment of war materials to Communist China.

Both the Senate and the House, by unanimous votes within a few hours, approved a resolution calling on the United Nations general assembly to vote such a ban.

Such action by the U. N., of course, would have only moral force since the organization has no enforcement powers.

The House also passed a resolution saying the Chinese Communist government should not be admitted to U. N. membership.

WEST CENTRAL FRONT, Korea — (AP) — Two Michigan men were among 15 American prisoners of war returned to United Nations lines May 12 by Chinese Communists, the Army reported today.

Brothers Turn Down $250,000 British Estate

AKRON, O. — (AP) — Would you move to England and live there the rest of your life for an estate worth nearly $250,000?

Salesman James N. Gape of nearby Cuyahoga Falls has the chance, but can't decide. Neither can his wife.

However his brother, Kenneth, next in line for the inheritance if James doesn't take it—already has made up his mind.

"I don't want it and I don't think my brother does either," declared Kenneth, who lives in Detroit. "I don't want to be an English gentleman and do nothing but sit around and have tea and crumpets."

What's more, he said, "I don't want my children to grow up where there's no incentive for advancement and where they can have only one egg a week."

Both brothers work for the Jenkins Bros., a New York valve manufacturing firm.

The estate was left to James by the brothers' British cousin, Mrs. Sibyl Gape. It includes 1,000 acres of beautiful rolling land in Cambridgeshire, England, two manor houses and some securities.

There is just one catch—the recipient must live in England the rest of his life. Both brothers are naturalized citizens and therefore would lose their U. S. citizenship by law after three years in England.

Sixth Girl Is Born To Chicago Couple; All Are Named Mary

CHICAGO — (AP) — A new baby girl has arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Drabik and like her five sisters she is named Mary.

But the six girls have second names, too. There's Mary Beth, 8; Mary Kay, 7; Mary Sue, 6; Mary Lynn, 4; Mary Jan, 20 months; and the new baby, Mary Pat. Their 27-year-old mother's name is Rose.

The Drabiks said when they were married in 1941 they hoped to have 10 girls.

"Our goal still is 10 girls," said Drabik, a 30-year-old ice cream plant worker.

Britain With U. S. In Red War, Says Sir Gladwyn Jebb

By A. I. GOLDBERG
NEW YORK — (AP) — Sir Gladwyn Jebb, chief British delegate to the United Nations, has pledged that Britain will stand "wholeheartedly" with the United States in the general struggle against Communist-inspired aggression.

Jebb defended Britain's record in the Korean war and her trade policy toward Red China in a speech before the New York City Bar association.

Embargoes Extended

Great Britain, he declared, "is wholeheartedly with the United States in the general struggle against Communist-inspired aggression. x x x everything we can do, short of fatally weakening our main position, to assist the general effect, we shall do, even if that results, as it may well result, in some lowering of the standard of living in Great Britain itself, which has been so laboriously built up since the war."

He said that Britain early in the war halted exports of strategic materials to Communist China, particularly petroleum products, but not rubber. Now, he said, rubber shipments also are embargoed.

The British diplomat predicted that the U. N. general assembly will adopt far-reaching embargo recommendations later this week.

Jebb told the Bar association he had "often heard it alleged that we had subordinated our support for the United Nations to our own commercial interests in Hong Kong."

"Nothing could be further from the truth," he declared.

"In these days, we are deriving very little direct benefits from trade with China and it would be ludicrous to suggest that, when the whole existence of the western world is at stake, we should give priority to such commercial interests."

Blow To Hong Kong

He said that Hong Kong depended on transit trade and that if all trade—outside of war materials—were cut off with Red China, "we should lose a certain amount of useful imports from China, a vast unemployment problem would be created, and civil unrest would arise over a large area in the Far East."

"A valuable outpost would disappear, one which has the advantage of demonstrating to the (Communist) Chinese the benefits of freedom of life under free institutions. And finally, a large number of Chinese Communist troops who are contained by our own garrison in the colony would be free to take part in the Korean war."

Auto Plants Expect Material Controls

DETROIT — (AP) — The auto industry may be officially classed as essential to the national economy in about a month, executives and purchasing agents were told yesterday.

This was brought out by federal officials in a question-and-answer period following an explanation of the Controlled Materials Plan (CMP) of the national production authority.

Details of the plan were given some 3,000 manufacturing representatives at conferences here.

The CMP is due to go into effect July 1, but may be delayed. Courtney Johnson, director of the motor vehicle division of the NPA said the industry's employment situation, rather than the need for cars, may be the big factor in determining whether auto makers will be able to get scarce materials after the next few months.

Most of the items now on the CMP list are war and defense products. Johnson said there is serious thought of putting trucks on the rolls.

At present, Johnson said, there is no move to bring production of passenger cars under CMP. He added such action may be taken later if passenger car makers have so much trouble finding materials that widespread unemployment is likely.

Kent County Does Away With Coroner

GRAND RAPIDS — (AP) — The office of coroner went out of existence in Kent county today. A medical examiner system replaces it.

Five medical examiners will investigate violent deaths under the direction of Health Officer Dr. J. D. Brook.

The county formerly had two elected coroners who were paid $2,500 each per year. Under the new system each of the five examiners will receive $150 per month.

Detroit Tackles Transit Tieup

DETROIT — (AP) — Lawyers for Detroit's strikebound public transit system drew up papers today for a court order to help get streetcars and buses rolling again.

The Department of Street Railways (DSR) commission voted late yesterday to seek an injunction against the AFL streetcar and bus operators union.

Court action was authorized after a complete deadlock in negotiations to end the 26-day-old strike.

Circuit court will be asked to bar the union from interfering with the city's announced plan to restore service without an agreement with the union. The injunction suit may be ready for filing late this week.

DSR Commissioner Rodney Baxter appealed to the 3,700 operators to return to work. But union officials said it was a vain hope that the strikers would get back on the job without the consent of the union.

Commissioner Baxter acknowledged it would take a long time to recruit and train new drivers. All the strikers have been fired under a state law forbidding strikes in public owned utilities. So far only 137 have applied for re-instatement.

Trial Set For Ousted President Of Panama

PANAMA, Panama — (AP) — Ousted president Arnulfo Arias will stand trial May 25, charged with abusing his constitutional powers.

An investigating committee named by the assembly will question Arias in his jail cell today.

'Fight' Over Estate Predicted By Norton, Says Mrs. Eva Blaney

Troubled days in the life of John Norton and a prediction by him that his death would be followed by an "awful fight" were recounted today by Mrs. Eva Blaney, practical nurse and housekeeper.

Testifying for the defense of the Norton will that left the bulk of the Daily Press founder's estate to the Escanaba school district, Mrs. Blaney was among the last witnesses to be called by proponents of the will.

Counsel for defense of the will is expected to rest its case this afternoon following the testimony of two more witnesses.

"After I'm Gone" Mrs. Blaney, who resides in Escanaba, was employed at the Norton home and in the care of John Norton from Jan. 8, 1950 to his death July 12, except for a period of three weeks in which she was ill.

She testified today that around Memorial Day, 1950, following a visit to his wife's grave at Holy Cross cemetery, she asked Norton where he would like to be buried. She testified that Mack Norton had asked her to find out, since Mack was considering interment of Norton at Cassopolis after his death.

"It really doesn't matter where I'm buried," Mrs. Blaney quoted John Norton as telling her. "After I'm gone they're going to have an awful fight over what I've got."

Flowers For Her Grave She said that Norton had asked that his wife's grave be decorated with flowers for Memorial Day and that she drove him to Holy Cross cemetery that evening. "It looks very lonely," Norton said, she testified.

In Norton's last illness, beginning July 2, a bed was placed for him in the living room, she said, after Norton had made her promise that he would not be taken to the hospital.

There was trouble in the Norton household for weeks prior to his last illness, she testified. Informed that Mrs. K. C. Pellow (sister-in-law of Norton) and her late daughter, a registered nurse, were going to "fire" her, Mrs. Blaney said she notified Mr. Norton.

"What the hell's going on around here," she said he replied. "Get Jim Ward, get Mackie."

This occurred while Mr. Norton was ill in St. Francis hospital following a fall at his home in February, and while he was suffering from a cold.

Lindenthal "Locked Out" Another time Mr. Norton's stomach was disturbed by heavy food given him by Mrs. Mack Norton while Mrs. Blaney was off for a day, Mrs. Blaney said. This resulted in an argument and Mrs. Blaney told Mr. Norton she would absent herself from the house while Mrs. Mack Norton was there.

The quarrel was patched up when Mrs. Norton returned after John Norton became seriously ill. On orders of Mack Norton a new lock, bolts and chain were placed on the door of the Norton home "to keep out Frank Lindenthal," she testified.

In cross-examination Mrs. Blaney also denied that during Norton's last illness she placed Mr. Norton's hand under her chin while she sat at his bedside. "Oh, no, sir. I should say not," she replied.

Denies "Narcotics Habit" Also in cross-examination she testified that Mr. Norton asked for and received sedatives as prescribed by his doctor.

She said that at her suggestion soda, rather than sedative was placed in the capsules and often Norton did not detect the difference.

Mrs. Blaney denied that she ever told Mr. and Mrs. Mack Norton that Norton had a "narcotics habit."

She said that she had never noticed anything unusual in Mr. Norton's mental condition, that he could smile, that she had very seldom seen him frown, and that he was capable of facial expression.

Tells of "Typical Day" Mrs. Blaney described a typical day in Norton's life.

She testified Mr. Norton arose between 5 and 6 a. m. and wanted his breakfast at 6 o'clock. "This is an ungodly hour to get a woman up, but I like breakfast at 6 o'clock," she quoted him as saying.

After breakfast he read a Milwaukee newspaper brought to the house by B. M. Stade, Daily Press office manager; left about 8 a. m. to visit the Press, and returned by 9 a. m. unless he went to barber shop, which was every other day.

Read Paper and Mail After returning to the house he "looked" at the paper, she testified.

"I know that Mr. Norton read the paper," she said, adding that he commented to her on what he had read.

After a lunch served promptly at 12 noon Norton took a nap, and then looked over the mail that came to him at the house. Mrs.

Blaney said Norton sorted the contents of the mail, setting aside checks to be deposited or letters to be answered, and tossing advertisements in the waste basket.

In the afternoon he read the Escanaba Daily Press and a Chicago paper, and was served his supper at 5 o'clock. She said she knew he read the Daily Press because he would remark about "so and so had passed away, don't you know them?" Mrs. Blaney said.

Missed His Wife After listening to the 6 o'clock newscast on the radio, Norton would sit for a time or visit with those who might come to call, and went to bed at 8 o'clock.

Once in the evening she said Norton told her that "I'm not much company to visit with," because he had difficulty in talking after his stroke. Mrs. Blaney said she engaged him in conversation to help get him over a feeling of failure in expressing himself.

She testified that she assisted him up the stairs and as they passed the doorway of the bedroom where Mrs. Norton slept until her death on Dec. 27, 1949, Norton would say:

"Poor dear Ann, I sure do miss her."

Norton made this comment almost nightly for weeks after the death of his wife, Mrs. Blaney testified.

Tells of Conversation In February after Norton and Frank Lindenthal returned from Rochester, where Norton's left eye was removed, Lindenthal came to the house one afternoon, Mrs. Blaney said.

She testified that Frank Lindenthal asked Norton if he would sell the Daily Press to the employees, and that Frank wanted his brother, George, "at the head of it" because he had a family.

James G. Ward, Jr., now Press general manager, could be business manager, she said Frank told Norton.

Russian Wheat Deal Gives US Propaganda Big Setback In India

NEW DELHI, India—(AP)—The United States has suffered major propaganda setback in India as the result of Russia's skillfully timed move to send 50,000 tons of wheat to feed this country's famine-threatened millions.
Indian officials, men on the street and the Indian Press greeted the Soviet move with widespread approval. They have been receiving with growing impatience the weeks-long reports on the ups and downs of U. S. proposals to grant or loan 2,000,000 tons of food grains to India.
It is apparent that an important segment of Indian public opinion, which has been wavering between the east and the west, swung further toward the Russian camp after this latest development.
The Russian move completely obscured the fact that the U. S. in the past months has been expediting grain shipments to India at the rate of more than 100,000 tons a month.

National Assembly Votes For Elections In France Next Month

PARIS—(AP)—A general election in France next month was assured when the French national assembly voted to end its own life on July 4.
The vote was 361 to 229 on the measure to terminate parliament, part of the government's program.
June 17 is expected to be the date for the general election, the first such election in France since Oct. 13, 1946.
This year's balloting normally would have come in the fall. Premier Henri Queuille predicted, however, that if the voting were not held soon the nation virtually would be without a responsible government until the end of the year.

Where Is Point Of Diminishing Returns In Cigarette Taxes?

HOW much tax can a commodity absorb, even a luxury item, before the saturation point is reached? The answer to that question probably will be forthcoming before long when the government continues to apply more tax pressures on cigarettes.

The present federal tax on cigarettes is seven cents a package. The state tax in Michigan is two cents a package. That's nine cents on a pack that sells for 20c to 22c. And now Uncle Sam wants to dump an even heavier tax burden upon the smoker. The treasury had requested an increase in federal excise tax to 10c per pack but congressmen have rebelled and thus far have approved only a one cent boost, to 8c a pack.

Add to these direct taxes—federal and state—all of the other taxes that tobacco companies are assessed, and which the smoker must pay and it becomes apparent that the biggest part of the money the smoker lays down for a pack of cigarettes goes to one governmental agency or another.

Somewhere along the line, though, if the present trend of adding more and more taxes to cigarettes continues, the point of diminishing returns will be reached. The smoker will simply toss up his hands in utter disgust and quit smoking.

Report Chiselers In Magazine Racket

EVERY year some Escanaba residents get nicked for magazine subscriptions by glib-talking strangers, most of whom are "working their way through college," only to learn several months later that they were hooked by a sharpie. The magazine fails to arrive.

This situation, of course, does not develop every time a crew of magazine solicitors arrives in town. Some of them are honest. It happens often enough, however, that it is discouraging to local residents. The answer to the problem is to buy from established dealers or from local persons. Then if there is any slipup in the subscription, the matter can be promptly straightened out.

If you should be a victim of the magazine subscription racket, notify the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce. The chamber may be in a position to help you. In any case, you will be assisting in weeding out the chiselers.

MacArthur Would Not 'Let Europe Stew'

BEFORE General MacArthur took the witness chair in Washington, the wider aspects of the controversy surrounding his dismissal were sometimes being referred to as the "Europe vs. Asia" debate.

The inference was that MacArthur represented a policy which would put Asia first as a theater of combat against Russian communism, while the administration stood for "Europe first."

Detailed examination of the general's testimony before the Senate foreign relations and armed services committees puts a totally different light on his attitude.

MacArthur is for combatting the Reds in all theaters, simultaneously if necessary. To those who argue the free nations cannot thus divide their strength, he replies that the Communists must likewise divide theirs to contest on more than one front. If they can do it, why not we?

If MacArthur gives any priority at all to Asia, it is simply because fighting is now in progress there, while Europe is still theoretically at peace. But he stated emphatically that he does not believe the defense of Europe should be neglected in any way.

There is plainly no comfort in MacArthur's views for those who feel that Europe should be left largely to its own devices. Nor is there solace for the believers in a sort of "fortress America" which would retire within its own outposts and rely on sea and air power to find off a hostile world.

That MacArthur should have, in this current controversy, attracted the backing of many long-confirmed isolationists is ironic. For his testimony proves that he is at the very opposite pole. He is for stepping in wherever the Communists threaten free men.

While he has great faith in American sea power and air strength and wants to see them more fully employed right now against Red China, he does not argue that they alone can be the saviors of freedom. To him, ground, sea and air forces are an inseparable team and he thinks it silly to consider them any other way. Here again, his words offer no pleasure to men who contend America can defend itself—and help defend its allies—without a large, well-trained land army.

MacArthur does not believe we are now prepared to fight a war on many fronts. But he is confident we have the potential, and should not therefore flinch from facing communism down at all points.

By his testimony on this broad problem, the general made clear that the issue is not Europe vs. Asia. As far as he is concerned, the issue is how to fight the war in Korea to produce the military victory he believes must be won to justify our fighting.

When the answering testimony of the joint chiefs of staff is all in, then the time will have arrived to weigh that issue with the utmost care and perception. Meantime, it is enough to observe that the general's differences with the administration are on a much narrower front than was first imagined by many.

Man Around The House By Gordon Martin

When you feel so awful rotten and you shirk your daily chores, and decide to stay at home and spend a lazy day indoors, you are soon aware the little woman hasn't much to say, and you gather that she thinks that you are only in the way. And in time you know for certain, as you watch your busy spouse, that she's anything but pleased to have a man around the house.

Now it's true she's quick to sympathize about the way you feel, and she hopes a day of rest will put you back on even keel. But with that, she goes about her work and much to her despair, you are always in her path and cause her trouble everywhere. Where you'd like to sit, she wants to dust, and so can't relax, and no matter where you go, she soon is following your tracks.

She's perturbed because you had the nerve to change the radio, so she missed a special program where they gave away some dough. Just by being home, you've upset all her usual routine, and by now you know you don't belong upon the household scene. So you go to work and wonder why it is that women arouse, if in daytime they must have a stupid man around the house.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — While the United States has poured several billion dollars into Greece to prevent that country from going Communist, a little group of Greek shipping men have put across the type of high finance that helps inspire Communism.

Paying almost no taxes in their own country, and not carrying Marshall plan goods to Greece free, as did the government-owned vessels of France, England, Italy, etc., these Greek shipping men bought surplus American Liberty ships at bargain rates and, using Greek government finances to guarantee their deals, now control a large part of the world's shipping.

Meanwhile the American public has been paying heavy taxes to support Greece. Meanwhile also the average Greek citizen living in Greece is only a few steps removed from poverty, while the Greek shipping magnates live in luxury in New York and London.

What they did was to buy 98 surplus Liberty ships with Greek government credit. Immediately thereafter, shipping rates went up, thanks to the shipment of Marshall plan goods abroad, and in two or three trips the Greek magnates were able to pay for the purchase price of the Liberty ships.

Then they turned around and used the huge profits to buy American oil tankers, and more recently to order construction of some of the biggest tankers in the oil industry. As a result they will almost dominate the long-term oil transport business.

GREEK ROLLBACK

Here is the continued rollback of the fabulous Greeks and the shipping empire they have amassed—largely at the expense of Uncle Sam:

Aristotle S. Onassis, who operates a great tanker fleet through a Panamanian corporation, the Olympic Oil Line, has just ordered two 40,000-ton tankers to be built at Hamburg, plus three 21,000-ton tankers. Furthermore he has the cash to pay for them. Onassis also has a fleet of four cargo vessels under the Panamanian flag, another fleet under the Honduran flag, and at least one or two ships under the Norwegian flag. Onassis was formerly an Argentine resident, he owns homes in Athens, Greece; and Montevideo, Uruguay; is represented in this country by Simpson, Spence and Young of New York City.

Another fabulous Greek shipping czar is the Callimanopoulos combine, owners of the Hellenic Lines, Ltd., and purchasers of two of the original, bargain-rate Liberty ships; also owners of at least one Panamanian shipping company, the General Shipping Corporation, which has been buying American ships and transferring them to the Panamanian flag. Callimanopoulos also owns an interest in the Fenton Steamship Company, Ltd.

PLENTY OF CASH

On March 26, 1946, Callimanopoulos reported the following assets to the maritime commission: $79,840.94 in cash at the National City Bank of New York; $500,000 in 2½ per cent U. S. bonds; $260,000 in 2½ per cent U. S. bonds; $58,000 in U. S. certificates of indebtedness. He also reported a joint account with his wife of $23,466.60 in cash in the National City Bank and 1,500 shares of the American Export Line. In escrow, he had $342,500 in 2½ per cent U. S. bonds and $155,000 in U. S. certificates of indebtedness.

Another Greek magnate, John M. Carras has been buying American ships and transferring them to Panamanian registry under his own name, listing Santa Monica, Calif., as his address. He also owns CIA de Navegacion, Las Cruces, S. A., a Panamanian corporation, together with a 25 per cent interest in the Atlantic Maritime corporation, the Panamanian company controlled by the Livanos brothers. Carras also has holdings in London, has been vice president and general manager of the Standard Shipbuilding corporation of San Pedro, Calif.

A. G. Pappadakis owns the Panamanian corporation, Cia Lama de Vapores, which has been buying American vessels for Panamanian registry. Pappadakis also bought one of the original Liberty ships in his own name. On March 30, 1947, he reported to the maritime commission that he had $275,000 in American banks.

GREEK PRIME MINISTER

C. G. Gratsos bought two of the original Liberty ships as C. G. Gratsos and Bros., and another one as Constantine G. Bros. He now owns several vessels, flying both the Panamanian and Honduran flags. On August 1, 1946, Gratsos reported to the maritime commission that he had $85,000 in cash in New York banks and large holdings in Dracoulis Ltd. of London.

George N. Moatsos and Sophocles E. Venizelos, now premier of Greece, bought an original Liberty ship, and are now listed as the owners of the Compania Maritima Isthmiana, a Panamanian corporation.

Into The Past

10 YEARS AGO

London—London today had its first air raid alarm since early Monday but it was of short duration and neither bombs nor gunfire was heard. The unusual surcease from bombs forms a strange coincidence with the presence in Britain of Rudolph Hess, No. 3 Nazi.

Escanaba—All unmarried teachers, both men and women, interested in teaching in rural schools of Delta county and qualified to hold such teaching positions are requested to register with C. P. Titus, Delta county school commissioner, next Wednesday and Thursday, May 21 and 22.

20 YEARS AGO

Nanking, China—A Nationalist government mandate offering a punitive expedition against the Kwangtung province insurrectionists in South China, is believed imminent in military circles here. The insurrectionists already have opened hostilities, having announced the deaths of 200 Nanking soldiers during an effort by anti-Nanking leaders to disarm pro-Nationalist fighters at Canton, Kwangtung capital.

Escanaba—A series of twilight concerts by the Escanaba high school band to be held during the next two weeks was announced by R. P. Bowers, head of the department of music, and director of the band.

Left, the powerful bald eagle, the nation's symbol since 1782, has been saved from extinction by a Federal law giving it protection, and the bird already is beginning to appear in larger numbers in the skies over its native America.

Right, the great seal of the United States, its design dominated by the bald eagle. If Ben Franklin had had his way, the bird on the seal would have been a native American wild turkey.

Great Bald Eagle, Nation's Symbol Since 1782, Makes Gallant Comeback

By HERBERT HOLLANDER

Barely saved from complete extinction by a Federal law, adopted after the outbreak of World War II, which now gives it protection everywhere throughout the country, the American bald eagle, the Nation's symbol since 1782, now is growing in numbers. All but wiped out by uncontrolled hunting, this bird which so long has lent his powerful likeness to official shield and seal, and recognized throughout the world as the unconquered emblem of liberty, once again is becoming a familiar sight in the skies all over America.

Although the bald eagle has been the symbol of the United States for 169 years, few know many of the facts about this great native bird. As a matter of fact, there is a great deal of misinformation about him, particularly with respect to his alleged ability to carry off babies and livestock in his beak, an ancient fable which modern science has disproved.

Truly American Bird

A bird of magnificent appearance, in every line expressive of strength and independence of spirit, the bald eagle is truly American, and found nowhere else in the world. It builds its nests high; wings powerfully and majestically; and is utterly fearless, as those who have attempted to rob its nest of eggs or young have ample reason to know. And it spends at least six months in rearing its young, the longest of any bird on this continent.

Since the earliest times, in the days of the Hittite kingdom and before, the eagle has been regarded as a king of birds and his likeness has been widely used in heraldry and coinage.

So in choosing the native bald eagle as its national emblem in 1782 the fledgling United States had precedents going back for thousands of years. Yet the selection brought vigorous objections from Benjamin Franklin. The sage of the Revolution favored the native American wild turkey, and if his views had prevailed it is that bird's likeness, rather than the eagle's, which now would be gracing our seal, flag staffs, coins, and numerous other official devices.

The need for an official seal was felt as soon as the Continental Congress adopted the Declaration of Independence in 1776, but it was not until 1782 that Congress finally adopted the eagle emblem. The first committee was composed of Benjamin Franklin, Thomas Jefferson, and John Adams. Two other committees worked on designs, and that of the third was adopted. It was the joint effort of William Barton of Philadelphia and Charles Thomson, Secretary of Congress.

It was Thomson who insisted on use of the American eagle, prominently displayed, with wings upraised. Thus, six years after the original committee started to work, Congress adopted the first great seal of the United States, and definitely made the bald eagle the national emblem. This first seal was used continuously until, by the 1840's, the die became worn and a new one was commissioned. The engraver took various liberties with the design—but retained the eagle—and this unauthorized version was used for nearly fifty years. Then a distinguished committee was appointed to supervise a revised design, which is the one now in use. As with the other two, the great bald eagle is the most prominent feature of the present seal.

Franklin's Opinion

Although many ornithologists disagree strongly with the eminent Dr. Franklin in his objections to the bald eagle, his opinion on the subject is so tremendously expressed that it makes interesting reading. He said:

"I wish that the bald eagle had not been chosen as the representative of our country; he is a bird of bad moral character; he does not get his living honestly; you may have seen him perched on some dead tree, where, too lazy to fish for himself, he watches the labor of the fishing-hawk, and when that diligent bird had at length taken a fish, and is bearing it to his nest for the support of his mate and young ones, the bald eagle pursues him and takes it from him. With all this injustice he is never in good case; but, like those among men who live by sharpening and robbing, he is generally poor, and often very lousy. Besides, he is a rank coward; the little kingbird, not bigger than a sparrow, attacks him boldly and drives him out of the district. . . . It is therefore by no means a proper emblem for the Cincinnati of America, who have driven all the king-birds from our country; though it fits exactly that order of Knights which the French call Chevaliers d'Industrie."

"I am, on this account, not displeased that the figure (on the Cincinnati Order device) is not known as a bald eagle but looks more like a turkey. For a truth, the turkey is in comparison a much more respectable bird, and withal a true original native of America. He is, besides, 'although a little vain and silly, it is true, but not the worse emblem for that, a bird of courage, and would not hesitate to attack a grenadier of the British guards, who should presume to invade his farmyard with a red coat on.'"

"Ben Franklin to the contrary notwithstanding, the bald eagle, for all his sometimes unpleasant feeding habits, is regarded by many who know him well as a majestic and great-hearted bird, and one whose disappearance would have meant a grievous loss to the native scene.

Many Tall Tales

Many tall tales are told of the depredations of the American eagle, the most popular being that which has the great bird swooping down and picking up a child and carrying it away to its eyrie. Ornithologists admit that it is a good story, but add that the only thing wrong with it is that there is no truth to it. Eagles can not lift more than their own weight, and they generally do not weigh more than eight or ten pounds.

The question often is asked as to why the American eagle is called bald or bald-headed. The reason is that many years ago the word bald was used to mean white, or streaked with white. It did not necessarily mean without covering. Thus, the bald-headed eagle—later shortened simply to bald eagle—signified an eagle with a white head.

Eagle's nests are large and are made of sticks and branches with a finer lining of leaves and lichens. Often a pair of eagles will have two or three nests which they use in alternate years. When first built the nests are three or four feet in diameter, but as they are used for many years and are continually repaired and added to, they become huge structures six or eight feet in diameter and as many feet thick.

Letters From The People

Railroad Retirement

Dear Editor:

There are approximately 175,700 aged and 72,300 disabled persons receiving annuities under the provisions of the Railroad Retirement Act and the average annuity paid them is $82.81 a month. Retirement annuity awards have been falling off since September 1948 and have reached its lowest point since the Retirement Act was enacted, August 29, 1935. This condition is due to the fact that employees will not and cannot afford to give up their pay checks in return for a monthly annuity which will not permit them to maintain a decent standard of living. By the elder employees refusing to retire, and justly so, the junior employees are being denied promotion and the opportunity to earn more money, thereby providing a better standard of living for their families and educational and cultural advantages for their children. With a balance in the railroad retirement account of close to three billion dollars, every retired person should receive an annuity, the amount of which should provide the minimum necessities of an orderly and decent life.

There is a bill now pending before the committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, which was introduced into the United States Congress on January 23, 1951, by the Honorable Congressman Edgar A. Jonas of Illinois at the request of Mr. Jas. L. Cosgrove, President of the Railroad Employees' National Pension Association, Inc., 110 South Dearborn street, Chicago, Illinois. This bill is for the amending of the Railroad Retirement Act and provides:

That the monthly compensation used in computing the annuity shall be the average compensation paid to an employee for his highest five consecutive years of service up to the end of the year in which he attains age 65.

That the minimum annuity shall be $100 a month and the maximum $186.

That all annuities now being paid shall be recalculated and increased in accordance with the benefits procured. That all pensions be increased 30%, not to exceed $180 a month.

The railroad people, active or retired, face a showdown on the question of amending the retirement act to provide adequate security for all. It is obvious that the provisions of H. R. 1941 provide the security you need and which can be procured. We all face the choice of making an all out fight now for the passage of H. R. 1941 or defaulting and suffering the consequences. Railroad people have shown in the past what can be accomplished through teamwork. That spirit is the bulwark of our democracy—our success.

Wake Up

To the Editor:

I am a junior in a large mid-western university who proudly claims Escanaba as his hometown. Proudly? Yes. But why? An excellent question. Has Escanaba anything worthwhile to offer to the prospective college graduate, or even the ambitious high school diploma recipient?

After some serious thought on this subject I was forced to accept the distasteful, but inevitable, conclusion that Escanaba is in a sorrowful state of degeneration. Is there any constructive policy underway which will encourage the progressive minded young men and women of Escanaba to return or even remain in a city whose very nature is one of expanding inanimation?

Certainly any city which fails to secure and retain the support of its young citizens is morally and physically doomed. The air of self-satisfaction and indifference so prevalent among its citizens surely is sufficient reason to cause alarm and to alert the people to the decadent and unhealthy atmosphere which prevails in Escanaba.

I have written this letter with the hope that it will start the people of Escanaba thinking and ultimately result in making a bigger and better Escanaba.

Sincerely yours,

A "Doomed" Escanaban

Good Evening . . .

By CLINT DUNATHAN

PIONEER GRUBBERS—In recent days in the John P. Norton will contest hearing there has been a harking back to the past in the Upper Peninsula—and an emphasis on Norton's interest in farming.

When A. G. Kettunen, Michigan State 4-H club program leader of East Lansing, testified of the interest of Mr. and Mrs. John Norton in 4-H club work in Delta county more than 25 years ago, it rang a familiar bell in the memory of many people who knew them "in the old days."

They recalled, for one thing, that Mrs. Norton assisted in establishing the 4-H club program in Wells township, where she served as teacher and school superintendent. Another witness, Walford Granskog, Stonington farm boy who is now teacher of vocational agriculture at Stephenson, recounted some of the encouraging effects of her work.

HERITAGE OF FARMING — They no doubt recalled John Norton's popular Old Orchard Farm column in the Escanaba Daily Press in the later years of his life.

Perhaps many people did not know that John Norton came to farming in a natural way. He was born on a farm near Cassopolis, Mich., of parents who had settled there more than a century ago and grubbed a clearing from the woods.

Mack and Charles Norton, John's brothers, now contesting his will, still live at Cassopolis—Mack on the old family farm where he has grown through the years some of the finest crops in Cass county. Mack Norton speaks of this proudly when you talk with him. The old heritage is strong in the family.

THIS CLOVERLAND—The Upper Peninsula did not blossom into farming until considerable encouragement.

We recall that as late as the 1930's the U. P. was still more often referred to as Cloverland than Hiawathaland.

The late John Norton of the Escanaba Daily Press, Roger M. Andrews of the Menominee Herald-Leader, and others were constantly alert to the economic value of agriculture. They knew that until farming caught hold, the U. P. would remain partly developed.

Out of the efforts of such men there came the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, then dedicated to the proposition that this was Cloverland, a ripe and fertile land that needed only the tickle of the plow to produce the laughter of bounteous crops.

THE SALES JOB — These men had an infectious faith in the region. In 1912 the Chicago & North Western railroad printed and distributed a booklet of more than 40 pages, telling the story of Cloverland.

James Wilson, then U. S. secretary of agriculture, wrote the following foreword: "I enjoyed myself greatly in northern Michigan on my recent visit there. I was agreeably surprised with the fertility of the soil."

"There is every reason why profitable agriculture can be conducted on what you people call the Upper Peninsula. It will grow all the crops necessary for dairying and stock breeding, and it will outlast your mining industries, great as they are."

OPENING THE WAY — If some of the sales talk in the Cloverland booklet of nearly 40 years ago sounds slightly over-colored and too optimistic, remember that a pioneer development job was being undertaken. Strong talk was required to lure prospective farmers to a region noted only for the extent of its mines and timber, its long winters, and its hunting and fur trade.

The following is, therefore, excusable as hyperbole:

"The conditions for farming are most favorable. Rains are well distributed throughout the year and crop failures are unknown. Cyclones and blizzards are unheard of. The snow in the winter is equally distributed on the ground and this protects all winter grains and grasses."

Some farmers came and failed and departed, others put down roots and made successes that brought comfortable living for themselves and their families. These people now remain—proof that with hard work the dreams of optimism can come true.

Take My Word For It . . . Frank Colby Jr.

WORDS TO WATCH

Hot Springs: In the Community Players here we argued a little about the pronunciation of the word decadent. I say DECK-uh-dnt, and some of the others say dee-KAY-dnt. We shall appreciate your discussing it.

A. The customary American pronunciation, and the first or only choice of most American dictionaries is dee-KAY-dnt. This has a much stronger suggestion of decay than does the pronunciation with the first-syllable accent. DECK-uh-dnt suggests "decade."

Newton Falls: What authority is there for pronouncing "discipline" as "di-SIP-lin"?—Mrs. I. H. J.

Answer: None whatever. Accent the first syllable only: DISS-i-plin.

Q. To settle an argument, please state whether the "fall" of infallible rhymes with "ball" or "pal."

Charlotte: On "Information Please" the other night I heard Lilliputian pronounced "Lilli-POO-tian." Not from one of the regulars, however, but a guest "expert."—E. D. B.

Answer: The tiny inhabitants of Lilliput (LILL-i-putt) in Swift's "Gulliver's Travels," are properly called: LILL-i-PEW-shunz. No authority to my knowledge sanctions a "poo" pronunciation.

Q. Who is right? A says that the first syllable of "pulmonary" rhymes with "full." B says it should rhyme with "dull." (I'm B.)

A. B wins. The "u" has the "uh" sound as in "dull, mull," thus: PUHL-muh-NAIR-ee.

Expert Arrives For Lie Test

Barnett To Take Examination Today

Sgt. Wilber Petermann, Michigan State Police polygraph expert, arrived by plane from Lansing at one o'clock this afternoon to conduct a lie detector examination of Logan Barnett, jr., the last person known to have been with Mrs. Priscilla Heath before her death last Wednesday morning.

The examination of Barnett was scheduled to be conducted by Sgt. Petermann in the office of the Michigan State Police post at Gladstone.

Sgt. Petermann's plane was delayed in DePere for several hours because of weather conditions.

Escanaba police reported the only new developments in the Heath case today was the discovery of a missing shoe, which washed ashore about 200 feet from the municipal dock. The shoe was found by Dan Garrett, lighthouse keeper, who also had previously found Mrs. Heath's billfold containing $30. A black purse which Mrs. Heath had in her possession Tuesday night, May 8, shortly before her disappearance is still missing and may be in the bay, police reported. A stocking also is missing.

Barnett has offered to take the lie detector test in support of his story that he "blacked out" from excessive drinking before leaving Club 41 at two a. m. Wednesday in company with Mrs. Heath, Sgt. Williams and Mrs. Edna Flath. Barnett reported that he does not remember anything from that time until five a. m. that morning when he awoke in his car, parked on Ludington street.

Progress Made In Farm Work

Plowing For Corn Gets Under Way

LANSING—(P)—Farmers made rapid progress with their field work during the past week although some freakish weather was recorded, the federal-state crop reporting service said today.

No rain fell in Upper Michigan or northern Lower Michigan during the week but on the nights of May 10 and 11, nearly an inch of rain was recorded in scattered localities of southern Michigan.

The warmest day was May 14, when the temperature climbed to 84 degrees at Marquette. Scattered frost was reported in central Michigan May 12 and 13 while farther north temperatures were well below freezing, dropping to 18 at Cadillac.

Field work progressed rapidly during the first of the week. Rain in the southern third of the state halted much of the field work Thursday but field conditions improved over the weekend.

Small grain planting was a major field work and plowing and fitting for corn was getting underway in the southern and western areas. About 70 per cent of the oats and 60 per cent of the barley acreage was planted.

About 17,500 acres of sugar beets were planted in the commercial counties. The planting of potatoes was reported from east and southeastern counties.

Price Controls Act May Expire

Congress Cool On Extension June 30

By G. MILTON KELLY
WASHINGTON—(P)—The chairman of the Senate banking committee says the defense production act (DPA) and the wage price controls it authorizes are in danger of rejection by Congress.

"I want to warn the administration," Senator Maybank (D-NC) told Price Director Michael V. DiSalle, that "I do not know if there is going to be an extension." The present law expires June 30. Maybank's committee is holding hearings on President Truman's request that DPA be extended, broadened and strengthened.

Maybank ordered a closed session today to explore with Secretary of Agriculture Brannan how far he plans to go if Congress does extend the act and grants powers to pay subsidies on farm products to keep consumer prices down.

Maybank said defense officials feared premature disclosure of what crops Brannan had in mind might send their prices soaring. He said Brannan also would testify at a public hearing immediately after the closed one.

The committee gave DiSalle a rough going over at a hearing yesterday.

Maybank said, "it is going to be very, very hard to get any bill passed at all."

DiSalle said he had "more confidence in the sense of responsibility of Congress" than to believe it would allow the act to expire and kill off the system of wage and price controls.

Maybank told reporters later he has found "a lot of opposition" to renewal of the act, and "a surprising lack of public interest" in keeping it alive.

Ishpeming Sees Bright Future

Mining Companies Are Optimistic

ISHPEMING—A bright future for Ishpeming and the iron industry was predicted last night by industrial and business leaders at the Chamber of Commerce open meeting in the Mather Inn.

Three speakers, Harry Peterson, general manager, Jones & Laughlin Ore Co.; F. J. Haller, manager of Michigan mines, Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Co., and S. M. Cohodas, of Cohodas Brothers, forecast marked expansion of this area.

Peterson briefly outlined the history of J. & L. in Ishpeming and declared the firm will be engaged in direct shipment of iron ore for at least another 50 years.

Tracy Outlook Good

J. & L., like all iron companies, he said, is seeking an economical solution to mining lowgrade ore. When a practical way is found, J. & L. will have approximately 400 million tons.

Meanwhile operations at the company's new Tracy mine are advancing and when that mine begins normal production, it will provide an estimated million tons of ore a year.

All this means more people will work and live in Ishpeming and increase the city's prosperity, he stated.

The C. of C. can help by doing everything in its power to promote and find a solution to the housing shortage, he asserted.

Haller Optimistic

Haller also was optimistic about the future of the iron industry and Ishpeming. He was "pinch-hitting" for Walter F. Gries, CCI welfare director, who was unable to attend the meeting.

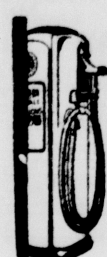

Haller read a talk given by Gries at a recent C. of C. meeting in Houghton, citing reasons Ishpeming and the iron industry are "sitting pretty." He, too, foresaw a future of at least 50 years for direct shipment of ore from Marquette range mines. Every effort is being made to solve the low-grade ore problems and he predicted a solution within a reasonable length of time.

Cohodas, while assuring those present that Ishpeming faces a bright future, cautioned that the country as a whole "is riding high" and the "inflationary bubble is going to burst."

Moscow Radio Tells Of Bestial American Atrocities In Korea

LONDON—(AP)—The Moscow radio today quoted a visiting North Korean delegation as saying American troops were committing "unprecedented atrocities" in Korea.

The propaganda broadcast said the Koreans told a Moscow press conference that thousands of their countrymen were being shot to cover American "failures on the fronts."

"They caught Yan U Sam, secretary of the primary organization of the party of labor, skinned him alive, chopped off his legs and forced his wife to eat his flesh," the broadcast said.

"In Pyongyang alone 15,000 patriots were shot. In Hwanghae province alone—one of the smallest provinces in Korea—100,000 people were shot."

"During the occupation of Seoul they arrested 75,000 residents, 10,000 of whom were shot."

"In Synchron settlement in Hwanghae province, they tortured to death in bestial fashion 70 children of 10 years of age."

in a two and a half week lull to thoroughly bolster their defenses. A division spokesman said the allied forces are probably in the best positions they have manned yet.

Ready To Explode
AP correspondent John Randolph reported that while allied officers differed on just when the Reds will strike they agreed:

"The Chinese are loaded and cocked and can explode southward any time they want."

The Chinese sharpened their probing attacks Wednesday morning, concentrating on the central front. They have moved in considerable strength across the Pukhan and Soyang rivers on either side of Chunchon.

One bugle blowing attack drove allies from their positions east of Chunchon before artillery broke up the Chinese force.

Korean Reds hit southwest of Inje, after recouping the highway town on the eastern front.

On the western front there were several sharp clashes about 17 miles north of Seoul. The Reds turned anti-tank guns on one armored American reconnaissance patrol.

Randolph reported all signs seemed to point to the final moves before a typical Chinese offensive.

Roadside Guide Is Off The Press

LANSING—The 1951 edition of the "Guide to Michigan's Roadside Recreational Facilities" is off-the-press and ready for distribution to Michigan motorists.

The guide is a specially designed road map booklet that locates the official roadside parks maintained by the Michigan State highway department. The parks are clearly indicated along the routes by a color symbol for quick reference. A complete description of each park including the number of picnic tables, wood stoves, playground equipment, toilets and drinking water is listed in the Guide.

The first edition of the Guide was published in 1950 and was so well received by the motorists that the publishers decided to publish annual editions. This handy booklet is distributed free of charge by the Auto-Owners Touring Bureau in Lansing. Free copies of the Guide are also available through Auto-Owners agents in this community.

By Hershberger

Urriolagoitia resigned and left the country.

The nation was immediately placed under a stage of siege—modified martial law. Strikes were declared illegal and the army command was given authority to order mobilization of both soldiers and civilians to maintain public order.

The coup came in an atmosphere of tension following the May elections in which Victor Paz Estenssoro, exiled leader of the nation's tin miners, won most votes but not enough for the clear majority which would entitle him automatically to the presidency without an act of congress.

(Paz Estenssoro issued a statement in Buenos Aires saying the coup was an attempt to prevent him from returning to take the presidency. He said his first impression was that the president's resignation and flight from the country was "part of a deal with the army" to keep the Nationalist revolutionary movement, which Paz Estenssoro heads, out of power.

Ex-Paratrooper Safe After 6-Story Fall With No Parachute

FAIRBANKS, Alaska—(AP)—Falling through the air is no novelty to ex-paratrooper Richard Beckman.

But Beckman had no parachute yesterday when he tumbled six stories from an apartment building project, landed on a concrete sidewalk—and lived to talk about it.

Beckman, 25, suffered only bruises and a possible small fracture of one rib, said an astonished physician, Dr. J. I. Weston.

"A strong shoulder and lots of luck," were credited by Dr. Weston with what he called a "miraculous escape from death."

"He apparently landed on his shoulder, and his outflung arm cushioned his head from the cement," the doctor said. "But I don't see how he could escape almost uninjured."

Blood Poison Almost Takes Life Of Buxom Actress Marie Wilson

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—Marie Wilson, buxom movie and radio comedienne, is recovering today from a near brush with death by blood poisoning.

She must remain in an oxygen tent for ten days at Cedars of Lebanon hospital. Her condition is still listed as serious.

Dr. Irving Leroy Rees, her physician, said she was brought to the hospital Friday night in a coma with a temperature of 105½.

"If it hadn't been for blood transfusions, administration of anti-biotics (infection killers) and an oxygen tent, she couldn't possibly have survived Saturday night," he said.

Dr. Ness said the blood infection followed a vitamin injection given by a friend of the actress. The doctor said she became extremely ill immediately after the injection but added that he was not called in until 18 hours later.

He called her a "very sick girl," but said she will recover barring unforeseen complications.

Thinks Warnings Are Overworked

Getting Bellyful Of Crisis, Horror

By ROBERT C. RUARK

MIAMI, Fla.—I am not a man who knock the way I make a living, which is the business of communication, but sometimes you wonder if we all aren't a little over-committed, to where our powers of reception have been semi-overwhelmed in an inundation of sensation.

There used to be an old thing which said "what you don't know don't hurt you," with which it is easy to disagree. But the opposite to ignorance is surfeit—which means a bellyfull-of threat, crisis, horror and damnation.

Threats Worn Out

The poised ax of imminent disaster has always been a forceful tool, and has been lavishly brandished by the exhorters, whether they be politicians or preachers, preachers or even wives with a point to make. The threat is a sticky weapon, and the words "if I don't do such-and-such, so-and-so will happen" are rubbed back with hard usage.

But it is possible to threaten too much, too often, and too wildly, that the keen edge blunts and the harsh impact is reduced to a tickle. The American people are in that stage today. We have been threatened right down to lethargy, doom-cried to apathy. This has been made possible by our vast network of communication—the devices by which the crisis of the moment, no matter where it occurs, is swiftly transmitted to the home of every man.

General Marshall, for instance, tells us that we are in immediate danger of Russian attack. I know this to be so. It is highly conceivable that at any time during the next two years a fleet of Soviet bombers may lay their deadly eggs on any of 200 important American cities. Our intelligence knows that the Russians have such horrible sidebar equipment as nerve gases and disease-spreaders, in addition to the big bomb.

We know it, sure. We have been told it over and over again. But we have been unable lately to interest the American people in the mechanics of survival. This deadly callousness results from a simple reasoning: If threats are loosely used to prove a piddling point, they are watered down by repetition. If you keep telling a man he is going to die tomorrow, in order to force him into buying a new insurance policy, he may become slightly distrustful when a few years pass and he is not yet dead.

Bay City Man Wins Silver Star Medal For Feats In Korea

NORFOLK, Va.—(AP)—The silver star medal, the nation's fifth highest award, was presented to Pfc. Bernard E. Metivier, U. S. Marine Corps reserve, of Bay City, Mich., in a ceremony at the Naval base, Norfolk, Va.

The young private played the hero's role when a Marine infantry company was forced to withdraw when surrounded by Chinese Reds in the Chosin reservoir in Korea, Dec. 6, 1950.

Metivier was acting in place of his squad leader who had been frostbitten in the fierce cold of the Korean night. In covering the withdrawal of an advance squad, Metivier made a singlehanded stand with an automatic rifle, spraying the enemy who were only 30 or 40 feet away, until the rest of the men had reached a safer position to the rear.

Costly Delays In 'Civil War'

Vital Decisions Are Postponed

By MARQUIS CHILDS
WASHINGTON—While the Truman-MacArthur civil war goes on, vital decisions to carry out the major aims of American policy are being postponed or ignored. This seems so obvious as to need scarcely any documentation.

Yet one instance, striking in the way it reveals both the effect of the controversy and of the bureaucratic snarls working to prevent decisive action, deserves to be told. It concerns the issue that more than almost any other, troubles the alliance of Western powers seeking to build strength to resist Communist aggression in Western Europe. This is scarce materials—tin, copper, lead, sulphur, chromium and who is to get what in Europe and the United States.

Marshall Plan Periled

For four months here in Washington various agencies involved have been trying to reach agreement on a plan to allocate such materials as between the needs of the various countries in the North Atlantic coalition. The basic principle being sought is essentially simple. It is, in effect, the following:

To make sure that the essential needs of each country are fulfilled—in terms of rearmament for defense—ahead of the non-essential needs of any country.

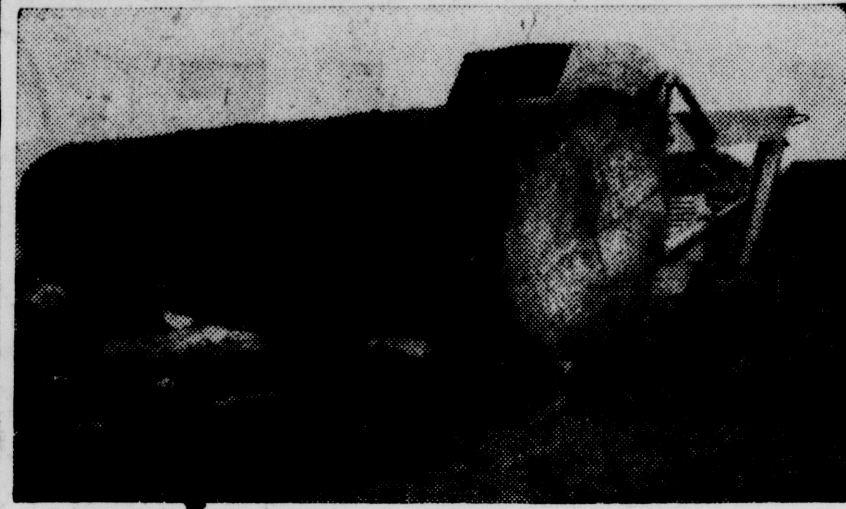

In Western Europe soaring cost of scarce materials has threatened to undo all the benefits of the Marshall Plan. Much of the blame has been put on America for grabbing the lion's share in order to build new arms, to do stockpiling that should have been done before and at the same time to maintain a boomtime civilian economy. Europe complains that we want both big shiny cars covered with chrome and tanks and guns.

Great political pressures have been building up behind the feeling that the American colossus was taking everything in sight, with nothing but left-overs for the other nations. An instance of this was seen in the resignation of Aneurin Bevan and Harold Wilson from the British Labor cabinet. Bevan and Wilson reflected the deep resentment of newly imposed austerities in Britain made essential by the rearmament program.

Rubber to China

At the same time British shortsightedness in permitting a marked increase in the shipments of rubber and other materials to Communist China was producing a different kind of resentment in this country. From both sides, the base of a workable coalition was

New Owner To Expand Industry In L'Anse

CARY LIFT in operation in muddy sawmill yard with large mahogany log weighing over 10,000 pounds, containing about 1200 feet of lumber.

L'ANSE, Mich.—E. Joseph Seifert, president of the Pettibone Mulliken Corporation, with headquarters in Chicago, announced today his company's acquisition of the exclusive manufacturing and sales rights to the LaTendresse Cary-Lift now being produced in being weakened.

In Washington interminable meetings—one of the greatest bureaucratic curses is the endless "meeting," higgling and haggling to reduce a dozen different viewpoints to the lowest common denominator—went on. Sometimes one agency would be represented by as many as 12 or 14 people, each individual expressing some shade of difference over the problem of allocating materials. Finally, in spite of this bureaucratic obstacle race, the matter got up to the cabinet level. It was approved by Secretary of Defense George Marshall. The whole cabinet approved it and at last the president himself gave it his okay.

Surely this should have been the end. But while Secretary Marshall has been absorbed in answering General MacArthur in daily appearances before the senate inquiry, one of his subordinates stepped in to demand that approval be held up. So there is still another dead end and time passes.

Of special interest is the Pettibone Mulliken Corporation decision to continue the production of the Cary-Lift at the present location in L'Anse. Seifert stated that as soon as additional materials are available and the company's sales program progresses, the L'Anse operations will be expanded. With the addition of the LaTendresse Cary-Lift to the line of loading equipment already being manufactured by the corporation throughout the U. S. A., the company is fast approaching the reputation of being the leading manufacturer of loading equipment in the world.

Native of Baraga

Philip LaTendresse, a native of Baraga and long noted in this area as a mechanical creative genius, conceived the idea of combining leverages and hydraulics on wheels in what now appears to be one of the greatest contributions in many years to solving material handling problems. "Phil," as he is most commonly known, has worked for years as a mechanic in his own shop in Baraga on various types of material handling equipment, particularly as it applied to the logging and lumbering industry.

Recognizing the need in the industrial for a machine that could withstand rugged use, together with greater utility, LaTendresse ventured into the field of development of the Cary-Lift which now bears his name. A total of 12 machines were manufactured over a period of 18 months, primarily using reconditioned parts, and were sold to local sawmills and logging operators. The firm of LaTendresse Manufacturing company and its seven employees were proud of the record of satisfied customers and their machine had such a high degree of acceptance locally that no sales effort was necessary to sell the product. Last August, the expanding operation at the LaTendresse Garage at Baraga necessitated moving into larger quarters which are the present quarters, located in the new Menge building in L'Anse.

Problems Ironed Out

With the Korean conflict came the restrictions on various types of material used in the manufacture of the LaTendresse Cary-Lift. Faced with the possible suspension of operations due to material shortages, Mr. LaTendresse sought the aid of various governmental agencies and individuals concerned with the problems of small manufacturers. In the late fall of 1950, LaTendresse contacted A. J. Gazvoda, then a member of the Governor Williams Full Employment committee, and a program was launched to continue the LaTendresse Manufacturing company in operation. The problem of finding a competent organization to cope with the expanding operation of the LaTendresse Manufacturing company was capably performed by Richard (Dick) Barta, now associated with the Radial Sales and Service.

Mr. Barta was personally instrumental in bringing together the Pettibone Mulliken Corporation and the LaTendresse Manufacturing company. With recent emphasis being placed on the war effort, the first step undertaken was to determine what use the armed services would have for the Cary-Lift. Through the cooperation of Congressman Bennett and his staff, considerable headway is now being made toward extending the use of the LaTendresse machine by the armed services. A demonstration of the Cary-Lift was recently arranged in Washington by Congressman Bennett. Current reports are that some branches of the armed service are giving the Cary-Lift consideration in their material handling problems.

McLean Engaged

One of the first steps taken by President Seifert of the Pettibone Mulliken Corporation was to retain the services of Angus L. 'Pink' MacLean, a former well known Copper Country resident, to represent the LaTendresse Manufacturing division in Washington. The Pettibone Mulliken Corporation also announced that Richard Barta of the Radial Sales and Service will have the exclusive sales rights to the Cary-Lift and other Pettibone Mulliken products now being manufactured for the Upper Peninsula and Wisconsin areas.

As much of the work as can be performed locally will be spread to various shops within reasonable proximity to the main assembly plant in L'Anse. The Calumet & Hecla Consolidated Copper company has already received orders for large castings which will be made in its foundry in Calumet.

Truman Signs Bill Giving VA Benefits To Korean Veterans

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman Friday signed into law a swiftly enacted bill giving ing veterans of the war in Korea—and others currently in the armed forces—the same medical benefits as veterans of declared wars.

Congress passed the bill in one afternoon, Thursday, after a veterans hospital reported it had been unable to care for a man who had fought in Korea because there is no declaration of war covering hostilities there. The veteran had a none-service-connected illness. The old law provided for such care only to veterans of declared wars.

and used as a counter balance in the Cary-Lift.

Public spirited citizens in this area who formulated the Peninsula Industries Incorporated are commended for their efforts in outlining a method of approach to aid manufacturing industries in this area. It was their program, namely "Build on what you already have," that was successfully employed in what is today the LaTendresse Manufacturing company—division of the Pettibone Mulliken Corporation.

'Chet Takes a Real Interest In Our Farming Problems'

says Sam Knebel
Lily, S. D.

"OUR FARMERS, our county agent and our Peavey Elevator manager are a wide-awake bunch," says Sam Knebel (right) of Lily, S. D. Chet Duerre (left) Peavey Elevator manager in Lily, told his farmer friends 13 years ago about the original Peavey experiments that proved the dollar value of fertilizer in small grain—and they proved they were "wide awake" by being among the first to try the Peavey recommendations.

"Farmers wouldn't get far if they had to do all their own experiments on such things as fertilizer," says Sam Knebel, Lily, S. D., farmer.

"We're glad to be able to benefit from work done by our Agricultural colleges, our county agents—yes, and by men like Chet Duerre and the Peavey Agricultural Department."

"There's more to be learned about fertilizer," says Knebel, "but we know this: at present grain prices, a boost of 2 bushels per acre more than pays for the fertilizer."

Chet Duerre feels that part of his job is to help promote better farming practices, such as the use of fertilizer. That's probably why Sam Knebel says: "I've been a Peavey customer for 16 years and I like the way they do business."

There's a Peavey man in your neighborhood too. Call on him often. He wants to help you in every way he can.

Plymouth's New "Safety-Flow Ride" Takes Bounce Out of Bumps

MOTION PICTURES made by our engineers show how little the new Plymouth goes up and down when passing over a bump, compared to cars that do not have the new "Safety-Flow Ride." New Oriflow shock absorbers, along with balanced weight distribution, synchronized springing, and other engineering features, hold the car closer to a level plane. They give Plymouth the riding qualities of a car weighing a thousand pounds more, in the opinion of Tom McCall, automotive expert, writing in Mechanix Illustrated.

OUR TEST DRIVERS repeatedly drove the new Plymouth across ditches and deep holes. Instead of the terrific pitching and tossing you'd expect, the car absorbed the impact and stayed under easy control.

"SAFETY-FLOW RIDE" is SO STEADY, even on rough roads, that you don't worry about giving rear seat passengers a toss or thump. This means peace of mind as well as bodily comfort. It's relaxed and restful—a completely new experience in riding comfort.

HEADS UP! With "Safety-Flow Ride" you can forget about the condition of the road immediately in front of the car and give your entire attention to oncoming traffic, pedestrians, and intersections ahead.

Shirt-Ironing Techniques Aid Homemaker In Avoiding Daily Domestic Explosions

By ANNE LARSEN
NEA Staff Writer

There's more potential domestic dynamite in a shirt drawer than almost any other spot in the house. The discovery, by most men, of a too-stiff collar or a wrinkle-creased sleeve, is usually cause for explosion.

If your husband is a perfectionist when it comes to shirts, you might find these tips helpful for bringing your ironing techniques up to his standards.

Spread the shirt out carefully and sprinkle it evenly, taking care not to get it too wet. Then, instead of crumpling or rolling it, fold it precisely in thirds lengthwise and then in thirds crosswise. Let the dampened shirts stand for three or four hours in a covered basket.

When you're ready to iron, place the shirt on the board so that the yoke is next to you and the tail is hanging over the far side of the board. Stretch out the right sleeve full length and begin pressing at the cuff. Iron the inside of the cuff first and then the outside.

Proceed then to the sleeve itself, using your right hand to push the iron upward toward the shoulder, seam, and your left hand to bring the iron back down the other side of the sleeve to the cuff. Then iron the reverse side of the sleeve, using the same procedure.

Next, turn your attention to the yoke. Fold the shirt so that the yoke lies flat on the board, with the collar ducked downward onto the chest of the shirt.

The collar should be tackled next. Iron it from point to point, working the tip of the iron downward on the band, making certain the double thickness of fabric here is ironed thoroughly dry to prevent later puckering.

Women who regard this part of the job as a hopeless bugaboo may find a solution to their problem in a shirt which features a wrinkleproof collar.

This young woman beams with pride at the skillful job she has done on her husband's shirts. Wrinkle-proof collars and special ironing techniques aided her in achieving professional-looking results.

Requiring no starch, the collar is said to retain its crisp look because of a special weaving process which resists curling or wilting.

The next step after the collar is the ironing of the second sleeve. Turn the shirt so that the freshly pressed sleeve hangs over the end of the board out of harm's way, while the unironed one settles into the position of the first. Repeat sleeve-ironing directions.

When this is finished, straighten out the back of the shirt and iron the underside of the collar, again smoothing from point to point and giving special attention to the neckband.

Now you are ready to iron the body of the shirt. Turn it on its back so that the collar faces toward the end of the board.

Begin with the back panel, ironing the inside so that the shirt will be in place when the side panels claim their turn. These are simply folded into place, one by one as you're ready for them, over the back section.

In order to pucker-proof the buttonhole and button bands, flip the side panels back toward the side seams to expose the undersides of the bands. Run your iron down them carefully, taking care not to iron a fold into the side panels.

The shirt is now finished and ready to fold.

LUDINGTON BUY-LINES

by Sue Donimus

SOMEONE has defined a government bureau as the place where the taxpayer's shirt is kept! Your bureau is the place where Penney's ribbed rayon broadcloth sport shirts are kept—I hope! Because you love the wonderful new shades in these easy to wash and iron shirts for men you'll want to choose several. Do I tax your incredulity when I say they cost only $2.98? Wear them of course with Penney's thrift—priced ($5.99) slacks. Crease resistant rayon in blue, browns and tan.

"A TREE," says my husband, "is a solid thing that stands in one place for 50 years and then jumps in front of a woman driver!" But that's nothing compared with the impact you get when you first get behind the wheel of a new Studebaker! Hope every wife can steer her husband into Peter-son and Jacobson Auto Service to see the Studebaker Champion—the ultimate in low priced cars! You're really ready to luxury living when you enjoy the new high efficiency engine that uses only low grade gasoline to get high grade mileage!

AT 20 I thought I could save the world—now I just wish I could save part of my salary! The NuEnamel Paint Store is offering me an opportunity anyway. If you're fixing up around your house, why don't you stop in at this quality paint store for these specials:

Spar Varnish (for inside or outside)—just $1.69 a qt.
Linoleum lacquer that's really good stuff—$1.49, qt.

A free 4 inch pure Chinese bristle housepaint brush with a purchase of 5 gal. high quality outside paint.

They must be trying to start a counterrevolution at NuEnamel! Keep you out of the Red anyway!

AS high school kids we all learned this definition of a kiss—The anatomical juxtaposition of two obicularis oris muscles in a state of contraction! Dorothy Gray now offers an exciting new lipstick that keeps very close to this subject, for it's a Super Stay Lipstick that won't come off! In seven luscious colors: Red Trey, Really Pink, South American, Ripe Cherries, Nut Brown Red, Right Red, and Siren. Dorothy Gray's Super Stay Lipstick is found at Gust Asps for $1.00. And don't forget, it will let you eat, drink, smoke with never a smudge or smear—AND—it will never tell when you find your obicularis oris muscles in a state of contraction! Choose several at Asps!

HE was such a promising young man that she finally had to sue him for breach of promise! But on my girl scout honor you'll find the Stephenson Lumber Company is a business place where you won't get all wound up in red tape—their pledge is as good as their bond. You really know where you stand when you order building materials from this reliable lumber company. Be sure to stop at Stephenson's in Wells for the lumber you'll need in repair work around the house this Spring.

Dear Housewife, MY first love letter, but let me tell you what I'd like to do for you: I'll wash your blankets and have them sweet and clean and fluffy dry for just 75c! I'll do two loads of washing (using 24 gal. of 140° water and 4 oz. of detergent)—save you rinsing and wringing and give you the clothes sparkling clean and ready to hang for just 70c! Isn't that a labor of love? Let me take a load off your mind and out of your hands. Loads of love from the Sun-Brite Laundromat! P.S. Meet you behind the Kiddie Korner!

SOON we'll be sending those high school seniors out into the world with brag and baggage. You can count on most of them to do their own talking, but you'll have to furnish the baggage! Hope you decide to choose the ABC Milwaukee Luggage I saw at the Fair Store. The sturdy cases are covered with heavily waxed linen that's extra smart in its waffle weave. These bags are scuff proof and come in a handsome two tone tan. There's a wardrobe bag, overnight case; and I especially liked the train case with its full back mirror and removable tray. Give that graduate a Fair chance with ABC Luggage!

A PSYCHIATRIST is the last person you talk to before you start talking to yourself! If housecleaning has you on the verge of talking to yourself, you'd better give yourself a good talking to. Tell yourself that one job you let someone else do is cleaning the rugs. The minimum charge at the NuWay Cleaners won't leave your budget unbalanced either! So call them to pick up your rugs this week. You'll be crazy over the dazzling, clean results, and you'll agree it's the NuWay to mental health!

Will Dedicate Receiving Vault

Rites To Form Part Of Memorial Service

Dedication of the newly constructed receiving vault at Fernwood cemetery is to be held in conjunction with the annual memorial services of August Mattson Post, American Legion, on Memorial Day, it was decided by the city commission in regular meeting Monday night.

Acquisition of ten memberships in the Chamber of Commerce was approved and voting power will be delegated to commissioners and a number of department heads.

A communication was received from the board of education stating that the Gladstone school district is faced with a possible $3900 deficit by the close of the school year and pointing out that if the same aid was forthcoming this year as last that the deficit would be cut considerably. A sum of $2500 is carried in this year's budget in the contingent fund as reserve for library expense and school nurse, it was pointed out. Last year additional assistance was given in the form of half the salary of the physical education and recreation director. What aid is to be given in this connection will be determined when recreation supervision plans for the summer are determined.

A proposal to install snow fence and a gate near the central field area at the playground diamond in order to allow parking of a number of autos inside the enclosure was discussed.

The possibility of paving Thirteenth street has been inquired into, City Manager H. J. Henriksen advised the commission and a cost estimate will be made by the city manager and given to the property owner in order that he may contact others in his area.

Laying of the eighth street storm sewer will not get under way until after Memorial Day, Manager Henriksen advised the commission because of the many other jobs on which city crews are now employed.

Playground signs will be erected on streets near several neighborhood playgrounds in the city in an effort to make motorists more cautious.

Arthur King Was Only Disorderly

Arthur King, Gladstone, who was arrested Sunday night following a tavern fight in which he was involved, was charged only with disorderly conduct, not with being drunk and disorderly, as a story carried in yesterday's Press indicated. He was sentenced to pay a nominal fine and court costs following a guilty plea.

He also was ordered to make restitution for a window in the city jail which he broke after being placed under arrest.

Lawn Sprinkling Is Now Restricted

The usual summer schedule of restricted hours for sprinkling of lawns and gardens will be placed into immediate effect, it is announced by City Manager M. J. Henriksen.

Hours are from 6 to 10 in the morning and from 5 to 9 in the afternoon.

Police checks will be made to assure cooperation in the ruling.

Teachers Will Have Dinner This Evening

The spring dinner for the public school faculty is to be held tonight at the Dells. An interesting program has been arranged for the event by a committee composed of Mable Larson, Marie Maxwell, Supt. Wallace Cameron and Don Pfotenbauer.

In 1950-51, 47 rural schools were closed as compared with 59 which were closed the previous year. Most of these closings were due to county reorganization or consolidation of schools, and the enrollment in 129 rural schools shows an increase during the current year. There were also 144 new teaching positions opened in the rural schools this year.

Corsages Presented

The district president also presented Mrs. Robare with a corsage, and she, in turn, presented a corsage to Mrs. Albert Ackerman, of Manistique, principal speaker at the program. Every charter member of the new auxiliary was given a corsage by Mrs. Elmer Blanchard, of Gould City.

A ritualistic Bible was presented to the infant auxiliary by the district president.

Other speakers at the session besides Mrs. Ackerman were Gould City VFW Commander William Depke; VFW Commander LeFond, of Newberry; District Hospital Director Harold Robinson, of Newberry; Mrs. Richard Brand, of Newberry, and Mrs. James Burns, president of the Germantown VFW auxiliary.

Other Manistique persons at the session were John Vaughan, Mr. and Mrs. Donald MacLean, and Albert Ackerman.

During intermission several musical numbers were played by the Engadine high school band, under the direction of James Stewart. The band also played at the conclusion of the program.

PHY ED DEMONSTRATION—Pyramid building like that above by a group of girls will form the finale for the physical education demonstration to be presented Thursday evening at Gladstone high school under the direction of Beverly Burt. ### Schools In Rural Areas Still Lowest In Pay, Promotions

ANN ARBOR—Michigan's rural schools continue to be at the bottom of the ladder, so far as salaries for teachers and opportunities to employ teachers are concerned, a report from the University of Michigan shows.

The report was prepared by the University's Bureau of Appointments in cooperation with the teacher placement offices of other colleges in the state.

The average salary of a beginning teacher in the rural schools in 1950-51 was $2,410 for a college graduate, $2,075 for a county normal graduate. In the state as a whole, the average beginning salary was $2,600 for a college graduate. In the rural schools, there were 3,051 teachers who had special or limited certificates.

In 1950-51, 47 rural schools were closed as compared with 59 which were closed the previous year. Most of these closings were due to county reorganization or consolidation of schools, and the enrollment in 129 rural schools shows an increase during the current year. There were also 144 new teaching positions opened in the rural schools this year.

Faint Nets $215

DETROIT—(AP)—Next time someone faints in Clinton Holcomb's bar, Clint will keep his eyes on the cash box and not the fainted customer. A man fell off a bar stool in a faint, but Holcomb quickly revived him with water. The customer thanked him and left with a friend. When next Holcomb looked around, a cigar box in which he had cached $215 was missing.

Public Fishing Site Bought By State Is Ideal, Says Engineer

Property has been acquired on Little Bay de Noquet in Gladstone by the Michigan Conservation Department for development as a public fishing site.

It is located in the north part of the city about east of what is known as the Flooring Plant addition and a short distance south of the Waldfred Lindberg home.

There is 243 feet of water frontage and the tract runs from the shore to the boundary of the US 2-41 right-of-way.

Inspection of the property was made yesterday by Floyd Fanselow and Merle Gerred, Lansing, of the Fish Division of the Conservation Department. Fanselow is an engineer in charge of development of public fishing grounds while Gerred is in charge of acquiring property for public fishing sites.

Site Ideal

Fanselow was pleased after looking over the property. This property has the two things we seek most in a public fishing site: proximity to good fishing grounds and closeness to a main highway," he declared.

The property was acquired by the state from Edwin Appelgren. The transaction was handled by Charles Burton, local realtor. According to Burton, the idea of seeking a public fishing grounds in Gladstone stemmed from the Delta County planning committee. Because the appropriation for the Fish Division of the Conservation Department is about exhausted at present development of the site will not start until after July, Fanselow stated.

However, it will immediately be marked as a public fishing site and its use encouraged.

As soon as money is available development of the site will start. In a portion of the ground which is swampy fill be used so as to provide ample parking space. The ground will be graded and the shore improved to provide ease of launching and beaching of boats. The entry will be improved as will the roadway. Toilet facilities also will be installed.

Fanselow inquired as to the availability of suitable fill with which to fill in the low areas and was advised by City Manager H. J. Henriksen that fill would be readily available from city-owned property on the bluff.

Have Equipment

The engineer said that the department has its own equipment including a loader and dump trucks and they would be moved to the scene and development started as soon as possible.

Picnic tables and outdoor stoves will not be set up on the area as they involve maintenance, which is something the department wishes to get away from.

There is a possibility that camping and overnight parking of house-trailers will be permitted, Fanselow stated.

The property is one of some 500 within the State of Michigan, all purchased with money from resident fish licenses. There is one other in Delta county, located near Garden.

In the group with Fanselow and Gerred yesterday were Burton, City Manager H. J. Henriksen, Edwin and Harold Appelgren, Wynard Nieuwenkamp, member of the Delta Planning board, and George Mathison, city commissioner.

With Roy Crandall

Charley Polich, Caspian pin artist who has been busting the maples with abandon this season, crashed into second place in the ABC singles event last weekend with a 739 series on games 233, 261 and 245. Rated one of the top klegers in the Upper Peninsula, Polich is 36 years old and works in an iron ore mine in the Iron River district. It was his second 700 series this season.

John Leppi, Ironwood high school senior, turned in the best track performance in the Peninsula this season when he skipped the 120-yard hurdles in 15.3 seconds last Saturday to lead the Ironwood Red Devils to victory in a four-school invitational meet. Leppi's time set a new longyear field record and bettered his own Upper Peninsula high hurdles record, set last season, by two-tenths of a second.

In other track action last weekend L'Anse high school won the Copper Country invitational track and field meet at Michigan Tech by besting a field of 11 schools. At Iron Mountain the Mountaineers successfully defended their Menominee Range conference title by topping Iron River, Crystal Falls and Kingsford in that order of finish.

Incidentally, the 21-foot broad jump of Escanaba's George Shomin in 1941 still stands as an official Upper Peninsula record for the event. State record for the event, in class B, was set by Hill of Ypsilanti in 1949 with a 22' 1 3/4" leap.

We're happy to report that the rest of the Crandall family will be here to stay next weekend. Yes, we have a nice apartment all lined up and will move in Sunday. It will seem good to get permanently settled and have the Missus and baby here.

Will Name Sites Of Peninsula Tourneys

Annual spring meeting of the Upper Peninsula Softball association has been called for Sunday, May 19 at 2:30 (EST) at the city hall, it was announced today by George Grenholm, president.

District commissioners and officers from throughout the Peninsula are expected. Representatives from Iron Mountain, Ironwood, Marquette area, Copper Country, Sault Ste. Marie and Menominee have been invited.

Sites of the 1951 district and Upper Peninsula championship tournaments will be determined at the meeting and officers will be named for the coming year.

Paul Vardigan is commissioner of the Escanaba district.

Famed Trapshooter Dies At Age Of 84

SPRINGFIELD, O. — (AP) — Charles A. (Sparrow) Young, who probably won more trapshooting championships than any other man, died last night after a long attack.

The 84-year-old sportsman was known as "Mr. Trapshooting" because he had been shooting clay and other targets for 65 years.

Young won the grand American handicap in 1926. One of his daughters, Mrs. George E. Peters of Springfield, O., won the women's grand American in the early 1940s.

Young gained his nickname of "Sparrow" in 1898 when it was the fashion to shoot live sparrows instead of clay targets. One day he dropped 182 out of 200 live sparrows in a meet at Indianapolis.

Blackwell, Bickford Hook Up In Tough Hurling Duel

By JOE REICHLER Associated Press Sports Writer

Ted Williams cracked his 300th home run. Only nine others had accomplished this feat.

Ewell Blackwell and Vern Bickford hooked up in a brilliant pitching duel that produced only three hits in the Cincinnati-Boston game. Blackwell allowed one hit to win, 1-0. Only twice before in the last 50 years have there been games in which fewer hits were made.

Yet, these exploits had to take a back seat yesterday to a bizarre stunt pulled by a rookie manager who once was billed as the "Switch-hitting, Ambidextrous Pitcher From Waxahatchie" (Texas).

This is how Paul Rapier Richards, in his first year as leader of the Chicago White Sox, stole the baseball thunder.

Switch

With his team leading the Red Sox, 7-6, and southpaw swinging Ted Williams leading off for Boston in the last half of the ninth, he replaced righthander Harry Dorish with lefty Billy Pierce. But Dorish did not go to the bench. Instead, Richards benched third baseman Orestes Minoza and moved pitcher Dorish there. Pierce got Williams on a high pop fly to the shortstop behind second. Richards then returned Dorish to the mound, Pierce back to the bench and sent Floyd Baker to third.

The White Sox won in the 11th when Nelson Fox poked a two-run homer for a 9-7 triumph. Williams' 300th and seventh of the season came in the fourth.

Babe Ruth once left the mound for right field for one batter, then returned. He was pitching for the Red Sox.

Real Duel

Blackwell threw a one-hitter in one of the tightest pitching battles ever waged. Bickford, the loser, allowed only two hits. The two righthanders, shooting for their second big league no-hitters, went into the fifth before Bob Elliott doubled off Blackwell for the first hit of the game.

Bickford surrendered his first hit in the sixth—a double by Connie Ryan. Cincinnati's second hit won the game. It was a home run by catcher John Pramesa.

The major league record for the fewest hits made by both teams in one game is two.

The victory moved the Reds out of the cellar into sixth place. Back again into the basement fell the New York Giants who dropped a 7-3 decision to Bill Werle and the Pirates in Pittsburgh.

Tigers Whip Senators To Tie For 2nd Place

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Detroit Tigers have come a far piece after snapping out of their early season slump.

A week ago they were in sixth place four games behind the league-leading New York Yankees.

Today the bounding Bengals are in a second-place tie with Chicago White Sox, two and a half games behind the Yankees, thanks to a 12-4 victory over the Washington Senators last night.

The Tigers mauled four Washington pitchers for 14 hits as Hal Newhouse held the Senators to nine hits. Sandy Consuegra was charged with the loss. The defeat was the first suffered by Washington's trio of Cuban pitchers, who had won eight altogether.

While maintaining their winning pace, the Tigers last night also made a trade with the Chicago White Sox in an effort to bolster their pitching.

Swap Rogovin

In a straight swap, no cash involved, Detroit traded pitcher Saul Rogovin for southpaw Bob Cain.

On the record it looked like a fair deal for the Tigers. Cain, 26, had a 9-12 mark with the second division Sox last year and 1-2 this season. He has done all right against the New York Yankees, incidentally, splitting them in eight starts.

The departure of Rogovin, 27, was not unexpected. Again this season he has failed to live up to promise. A sore arm again has troubled him.

Detroit went to town on Washington in the opener.

Prince Hal's performance was most encouraging to Manager Red Wolfe. Last year he didn't win his first game until May 22 and went on to a 15-13 mark—an unimpressive record for Hal. This year he has pitched well but lost two games by close scores early in the season. Then the Tigers began to hit and he won two in a row, including a shutout over Washington in which he allowed no walks. His record now is 3-2 and he has pitched four complete games.

Souchock Homers

Vic Wertz and Pat Mullin led the assault with three hits each. Steve Souchock slammed an eighth inning homer off Joe Haynes after Wertz walked.

Wertz' hitting streak now has gone through 11 games and he's leading the American league in runs-batted-in with 24.

First baseman Dick Kryhoski, the league's leading batter at .404, pushed his hitting streak through the 12th straight game. He got one hit.

Third baseman George Kell, who got two hits, has produced in nine straight games.

Second baseman Jerry Priddy, who had hit in 10 straight games, went hitless but he got on base on a forceout in the fourth inning and scored one run.

Meet Sunday For U. P. Ball League

MUNISING — Another session to organize the Upper Peninsula baseball league for the 1951 season will be held Sunday afternoon in Marquette. Orville Wieland, president, has announced.

At a meeting in Humboldt two weeks ago it appeared that eight clubs would be on the field for the new campaign, against 12 in the circuit's lineup last year. Then, at another gettogether in L'Anse Sunday, L'Anse dropped out of the fold because of financial difficulties. With that "break" South Range and Houghton decided that it would not be worth while to stay in the league, considering the number of distant trips (as far east as Munising) which would be necessary and with so few home games in the schedule. So they withdrew from the organization and plan to play ball in a Copper Country loop.

Right now it seems that the league will open its campaign Sunday, May 27, as a five-team organization, although Negaunee may be "drafted" to round-out the setup.

Brewers Drop 5-4 Nod To Kansas City Club

(By The Associated Press)

Pitcher Bob Muncief, former major leaguer, stifled Milwaukee rallies last night to give Kansas City a 5-4 decision and a virtual tie with the Brewers for the American association lead.

Muncief relieved starter Cliff Melton when the league-leading Brewers loaded the bases in the eighth with none out. Bob got one out on a force at the plate, the second on a strikeout and the third on a grounder.

Charley Maxwell, a Boston Red Sox castoff, sparked Louisville to a 6-3 win. Maxwell pounded a three-run homer in the seventh for the victory margin.

Toledo blew a 5-0 lead to lost 7-6 to Columbus. Two homers by rookie Ralph Atkins and another by Bill Barnacle shot the Hens ahead. But Fred McAlister finally put the Redbirds in front in the seventh with a bases loaded double for three runs.

lead with a home run after Eddie Yost doubled, but Detroit got two runs in the second off Consuegra on a walk and four singles.

The Tigers took a 4-2 lead in the third inning on a walk to Kryhoski, Wertz' single and Mullin's triple.

It was easy for the Tigers the rest of the way as they scored three runs in the fourth, three in the sixth and two in the eighth.

Bears Will Face Gladstone Here

Exhibition Slated Tomorrow Evening

Fresh from their successful debut in the Tri-County league last Sunday, the Escanaba Bears will renew a long rivalry with Gladstone here Thursday evening in a twilight exhibition tilt slated for 6 o'clock.

Manager Phil Brazeau's Bears, who subdued a usually potent Bark River team 8-2 in the Tri-County opener, will have either Joe Rademacher or Jack Beck on the mound tomorrow evening. Regular hurler Russ Hiltunen will be saved for the Bears' league outing Sunday at Wallace.

Remainder of the Bear lineup will have Camps at catch, Gauthier at first, McDonald at second, Olson at third, Kutchenberg at short and St. Germain, Rucci and Peterson in the outfield.

The Bears will be facing a young Gladstone team composed mostly of former Junior Legion players. Gladstone showed strength last Sunday in topping Marquette 4-3 in a Rainbow league pre-season exhibition.

Gladstone has three chucks available for action here. Bill Sundling, Pete Sarasin and Jim LaLonde comprise the Gladstone mound staff. Backstop duties will be handled by Larry LaPlante, Dick Pilon or Bob Ritter.

Sundling tossed seven innings against Marquette, allowing seven hits and fanning six. Sarasin pitched hitless ball the final two innings.

Escanaba Faces Ishpeming Here

Final Home Game For Undefeated Eskymos

Coach Jim Rouman's undefeated Eskymos will go after their third straight baseball win here Thursday afternoon in a 3:30 clash with Ishpeming's Hematites.

The game will mark the final home appearance of the Escanaba high school team and a good turnout is expected. The Eskys conclude the regular season with a series of road trips to Negaunee May 21, Marquette May 24 and Ishpeming May 28. The rained out season opener with Negaunee has not been rescheduled.

Jack Chriske, righthander, will get the starting nod against Ishpeming. Coach Rouman said. Remainder of the starting lineup will be intact.

Chriske has hurled all three Escanaba wins this season. He was on the mound as Escanaba whipped St. Joe 14-2, Marquette 5-2 and Iron Mountain 2-1. In the three outings he has allowed a total of 12 hits. In his last two games he whiffed 25 batters.

Little is known of the strength of the Ishpeming team here. The Hematites were beaten earlier in the season by Marquette, however.

Nahma Replaced By Trenary In Bay de Noc

Commissioner Edward Gibbs today announced that Nahma had dropped out of the Bay de Noc baseball league and was replaced by Trenary.

Nahma, staunch member of the circuit since the league organized five years ago, could find no replacement for retiring manager Vic Tebo and decided to withdraw from competition.

Trenary will be playing its first season in the loop. Opening games are slated Sunday.

Yesterday's Stars

Batting—Nelson Fox, White Sox, his first major league home run with a man on base came in the 11th inning to give Chicago a 9-7 triumph over the Boston Red Sox.

Pitching—Ewell Blackwell, Reds—pitched a one-hitter (fifth inning double by Bob Elliott) to win a hurling duel from Vern Bickford and the Boston Braves, 1-0. Bickford allowed only two hits, one a seventh inning home run by Catcher John Pramesa.

Manager Explains Strategy Of Clever Mound Maneuver

BOSTON — (AP) — Who's on third?

Sometimes it's a pitcher when freshman major league Manager Paul Richards pulls the strings. "I'll play percentage as far as I can if it will win a ball game," quietly said the well spoken Chicago White Sox manager today in explaining an unusual bit of strategy he worked yesterday as Chicago beat the Red Sox 9-7 in eleven innings.

Richards called in lefthander Billy Pierce to pitch to the left handed hitting Williams. Righthander Harry Dorish moved over to third base (that's right, third base) as Orestes Minoza went to the bench.

The Chicagoans went into their exaggerated right field shift against Williams and the free swinging Boston outfielder popped out.

Out went Pierce and back went Dorish to the pitching mound and Floyd Baker came off the bench to play third.

"I wanted the left hander

(Pierce) to pitch to Williams who, I was sure, wouldn't hit to third base," said Richards, "and if he did Dorish probably could have handled it."

"I wanted to keep Dorish in the game. I had complete confidence in him. I think he's tough to hit in this (Fenway) park and he throws that sinker which most batters hit on the ground."

"Then I had Floyd Baker, a good infielder, ready to go at third which gave us the defensive strength we needed."

"Don't forget," interjected Al Zarilla, Chicago right fielder who played for Boston last season, "he made the move, kept the Red Sox guessing, put them on the defensive. We won the game."

Richards used the same gag at Buffalo in the International league when Bob Hooper (right-hander now with Philadelphia) was pitching.

"I used a lefthander against a left handed batter, got rid of him and moved Hooper back in to pitch," he said.

Two Iron For Distance; Here's How To Shoot It

Fourteenth of a series by members of the P. G. A. By LLOYD MANGRUM Former U. S. Open Champion

Playing a two iron, the player should remember that he is striving for distance, and the club he is using has been constructed to aid him in every way.

The two iron is one of the nearest things to a wood in its class. The shaft is long so a maximum amount of power can be generated. The face of the club is almost vertical so that distance rather than altitude will be achieved.

I utilize the same grip that I employ when hitting a wood. My left hand is the one that is really holding the club. My right is held rather lightly on the club, is used more as a steadying influence.

Assuming my stance, the weight is evenly divided on the feet. My right shoulder is slightly lower than my left.

Addressing the ball, I bend slightly from the waist. Here is the first basic difference in the form used for hitting a long iron as compared with one used for hitting a wood. This is made necessary by the difference in the length of the clubs. My knees are slightly bent to aid in adjusting my height to the length of the club.

Up to the start of the backswing, my left arm is still straight, but my right arm is bent slightly at the elbow. The major portion of my weight has now been transferred to my right leg, the left being relaxed and bent slightly forward and to the right. It is now my left shoulder that is low, the right having been automatically raised higher as the club head ascended.

I start generating power at the top of the backswing. My wrists are completely cocked. My left arm is pointing upward at about a 350-degree angle with just a slight bend at the elbow. The club is perfectly horizontal across the top of my head.

I hesitate slightly before starting the downward stroke. My weight is now resting almost entirely on my right leg. The left is still relaxed, bent visibly at the knee, and has moved decidedly to the right.

At the start of the follow through, my weight has shifted so that a major portion of it is resting mainly on my left leg, but equalized balance is maintained. My right shoulder has dropped, thereby enabling my right arm to be almost straight, only a slight bend being visible at the elbow.

AT TOP—At the top of the backswing, Lloyd Mangrum's two iron is perfectly horizontal across the top of his head.

At three-fourths of the follow through, the weight distribution on my left leg is more pronounced. The right leg is still relaxed. My legs are almost the exact reverse of what they were at the top of the backswing.

The clubhead has now been elevated higher into the air, following a natural pendulum path and forming a perfect arc.

NEXT: Sam Snead on wood shots.
